THAT TROUBLE-SOME BABY.

[Peck's Sun.]

"Well how is the baby?" asked the grocery man of the bad boy, as he came into the grocery smelling very "horsey," and sat down on the chair with the back gone and looked very tired.

"Oh, darn the baby. Everybody asks me about the baby as though it was mine. I don't pay no attention to the darn thing, except to notice the foolishness going on around the house. Say, I guess that baby will grow up to be a fire engine. The nurse coupled the baby on to a section of rubber hose that runs down into a bottle of milk, and it began to get up steam and pretty soon the milk began to disappear just like the water does when a fire engine couples on to a hydrant. Pa calls the baby 'Old Number Two.' I am 'Number One,' and if pa had a hook and ladder truck and a hose cart and a fire engine, he would imagine he was chief engineer of the fire department. But the baby kicks on this milk-wagon milk, and howls like a dog that's got lost. The doctor told pa that the best thing he could do was to get a goat, but pa said since we 'nished him into the Masons with the goat he would not have a goat around nohow. The doc told pa the other kind of a goat, I think it was a Samantha goat he said, wouldn't kick with its head, and pa sent me up to the Polack settlement to see if I couldn't borrow a milk goat for a few weeks. I got a woman to lend us her goat till the baby got big enough to chew beef, for a dollar a week, and paid a dollar in advance, and pa went up in the evening to help me get the goat. Well, it was the darndest mistake you ever see. There was two goats so near alike that you couldn't tell which was the goat we leased, and the other goat was the chum of our goat, but it belonged to a Irish woman. We got a bed cord hitched around the Irish goat, and that goat didn't recognize the lease, and when we tried to jerk it along it reared right up and made things real quick for pa. I don't know what there is about a goat that makes it get so spunky, but that goat seemed to have a grudge against pa from the first. If there were any places on pa's manly form that the goat did not explore with its head, pa don't know where the places are. Oh, it lammed him, and when I lammed pa got mad. I told him every man ought to furnish his own goats, when he had a baby, and I let go of the rope and started off, and pa said he knew how it was, I wanted him to get killed. It wasn't that, but I saw the Irish woman that owned the goat coming around the corner of the house with a cistern pole. Just as pa was getting the goat out of the gate the goat got crossways of the gate, and pa yanked and doubled the goat right up, and I thought he had broke the goat's neck, and the woman thought so too, for she jabbed pa with the cistern pole just below the belt, and then she tried to get a hold on pa's head, but he had her there. No woman can get the advantage of pa that way, 'cause ma has tried it. Well, pa explained it to the woman, and she let pa off if he would pay her $2 damages to her goat, and he paid it, and then we took the nanny goat, and it went right along with us. But I have got my opinion of a baby that will drink goat's milk.
Goah, it is like the stuff that comes in a spoiled cocoanut. The baby hasn't done anything but blattance the nurse coupled it on to the goat hydrant. I had to take all my playthings out of the basement to keep the goat from eating them. I guess the milk will taste of powder and singed hair now. The goat got to eating some Roman candles me and my chum had laid away in the coal bin, and chewed them around the furnace, and the powder leaked out and a coal fell out of the furnace on the hearth, and you'd a died to see pa and the hired girl and the goat.
You see pa can't milk nothing but a milk-wagon, and he got the hired girl to milk the goat, and they were just hunting around the basement for the goat, with a tin cup, when the fireworks went off.

Well, there was balls of green, and red and blue fire, and spilled powder blazed up, and the goat just looked astonished, and looked on as though he was sorry so much good fodder was spoiled; but when its hair began to burn the goat gave one snort and went between pa and the hired girl like it was shot out of a cannon, and it knocked pa over a wash boiler into the coal bin, and the hired girl amongst the kindling wood, and she crossed herself and repeated the catechism, and the goat jumped up on top of the brick furnace, and they couldn't get it down. I heard the celebration and went down and took pa by the pants and pulled him out of the coal bin, and he said he would surrender and plead guilty of being the biggest fool in Milwaukee. I pulled the kindling wood off the hired girl, and then she got mad, and said she would milk that goat or die. Oh, that girl has got sand. She used to work in a glass factory. Well, sir, it was a sight worth two shillings admission to see that hired girl get up on a step ladder to milk that goat on top of the furnace, with pa sitting on a barrel of potatoes, boosing the job. They are going to fix a gang plank to get the goat down off the furnace.
The baby kicked on the milk last night.
I guess besides tasting of burnt hair and powder, the milk was too warm on account of the furnace. Pa has got to grow a new lot of hair on that goat, or the woman won't take it back. She don't want no bald goat.

Well, they can run the baby and goat to suit themselves, 'cause I have resigned.
I have gone into business. Don't you smell anything that would lead you to surmise that I had gone into business?
No drugstore this time." and the boy got up and put his thumbs in the armpits of his vest, and looked proud.

"Oh, I don't know as I smell anything except the faint odor of a horse blanket. What you gone into, anyway?" and the grocery man put the wrapping paper under the counter, and put the red chalk in his pocket, so the boy couldn't write any sign to hang up outside.

"You hit it the first time. I have accepted the situation of teller in a livery stable," as he searched around for the barrel of cut sugar which had been removed.

"Teller in a livery stable! Well, that is a new one to me. What is a teller in a livery stable?" and the grocery man looked pleased and pointed the boy to a barrel of seven-cent sugar.

"Don't you know what a teller is in a livery stable? It's the same as a teller in a bank. I have to grease the harness and oil the buggies and carry off the horses, and when a man comes in to hire a horse I have to go down to the saloon and tell the livery man. That's what a teller is. I like the teller part of it, but greasing harness is a little too rich for my blood, but the livery man says if I stick to it I will be governor some day, 'cause most all the great men have begun life taking care of horses. It all depends on my girl whether I stick or not. If she likes the smell of horses I shall be a statesman, but if she objects to it, and sticks up her nose, I shall not yearn to be governor at the expense of my girl.
It beats all, don't it, that women settle every great question. Everybody does everything to please wimmen, and if they kick on anything that settles it. But I must go and umpire that game between pa and the hired girl and the goat. Say, can't you come over and see the baby?
'Taint bigger than a small satchel," and the boy waited till the grocery man went to draw some vinegar when he slipped out and put up a sign written on a shingle with white chalk, "Yellow sand wanted for maple sugar."

A few years ago, when Mr. James Terrentine of Houston was in life and residing in that county, he cut a large oak down and split it open, and found in the center of the tree an ordinary frog, alive and apparently healthy. There was no entrance or aperture in the trunk by which the frog could have entered, but was perfectly sound and solid, and just space enough for the little animal to occupy. How the frog got there and lived is a mystery. The tree was quite large, and this animal must have lived at least twenty or thirty years without even a breath of air.—[Savannah News.]

Miss Charles Worth, the officer in the Salvation Army who was expelled from Geneva, says she had "great fun" before she left. She "went down on her knees and prayed out loud" in the magistrate's room, "all the time keeping an eye on the inspector," and thus managed to keep "these cross inspectors from their dinners" a whole hour.
